Our bodies are incredible machines, but just like any complex structure, it takes a lot of work to make it run smoothly. One of the most basic elements of our health and the wellness of our body is the pH level we maintain. For those who don't know, pH is a measurement of the acidity and alkalinity within the body. A neutral pH is 7.0.

Unlike other meal replacement shakes, Shakeology claims it aids in weight loss, improves digestive function, and boost immune health, to name a few. Apparently, it does this by including plenty of superfoods, phytonutrients, and more in their formula. Although some these ingredients have shown to improve health, like coconut and brown rice protein, their effects on weight-loss are controversial.
